

There Are Nine Ideal Figures And One of These Figures is Yours

Gossard Corsets will give a beauty of line, healthful support, and the same degree of comfortableness that it would were it custom tailored.

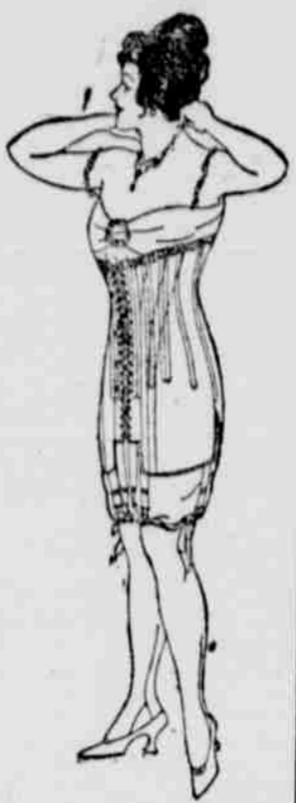

Gossard quality of materials and workmanship insure long wear and permanent shape. Gossard Corsets are easy to put on, because they lace in front and clasp at the side of the lace.

These and other distinguishing characteristics represent the sort of progressiveness that has established Gossard leadership in all the civilized countries of the world.

We also feature Warner's Rust Proof Back Lace Corsets, Regal, Wilhelmina, La Resist and Flexo Form Corsets, Gossard, DeBevoise and Warner's Brassieres. Special line odd Corsets to close at 79c.

A few odd pairs better Corsets at a great reduction.

Miss Margaret Munroe of Hardwick has returned home, after passing a vacation with friends in the city.

Mrs. Lowell Green of Berlin, N. H., is spending a few days with her brother, Howard Bennett, of this city.

Miss Lottie Merrill of South Royalton arrived in the city last night and will visit friends and relatives for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stephen of Madison street left this morning for Woodbury, where they are to pass 10 days in camp at the lake.

Special for August, three-ply rubber garden hose, couch and swing hammocks, refrigerators, porch rockers, wash wringers. Sadler, Keith avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Smith and their daughter, Miss Eva Smith, returned to their home on Summer street last night after spending a week at Lake Caspian, Greensboro.

B. F. Fayette, proprietor of the Vermont Fruit company, returned to Burlington this morning after spending two days in the city on business in connection with his company.

"The Scarlet Rose," a great five-part drama of Broadway and the white lights, will be the feature of the evening at Inter-city park to-morrow night at 8 o'clock; also that one-act roar, "Musty Suffer,"—adv.

Miss Emma Severy of Farwell street commences her vacation from the Vaughan store to-day and will start the first of next week for her former home in Lancaster, N. H. Miss Severy will be accompanied by Miss Mildred Covey.

James T. Kenefick accompanied members of the Barre Golf club's team to St. Johnsbury to-day and will remain away through the week-end, returning Monday with Mrs. Kenefick, who has been passing several days with friends in Caledonia county.

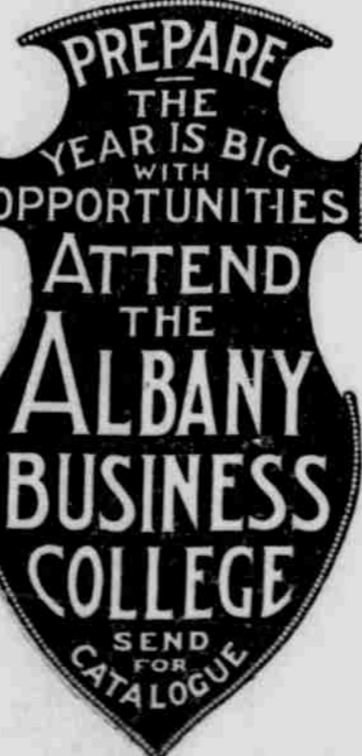

Alexander Mackenzie of Boston, who is in charge of construction work at Newbury this summer, motored to Barre this morning to pass the week-end with acquaintances. Mr. Mackenzie was employed on the river bed change under Joseph Long and later supervised the construction of the Trow & Holden dam.

Richard Harvey, an old offender, who strayed into town yesterday after having been employed in the mines at Stratford for several months, was arraigned before Magistrate H. W. Scott in city court this morning on a charge of being a habitual drunkard. When the respondent pleaded guilty, Judge Scott imposed a fine of $15 and costs, which Harvey was unable to pay. He will serve the alternate sentence.

State's Attorney F. E. Gleason and counsel for four respondents arrested in connection with raids for intoxicating liquor Thursday will meet early in the coming week to fix dates for city court hearings. The private inquest started by the state's attorney Thursday was adjourned last night until the beginning of the week, Assistant Judge G. H. Dale returning to his home in Waterbury last evening. All of the respondents appearing as a result of the police raids are out on bail.

The city council did not meet last evening. Instead, those upon whom devolved the task of motorizing the water and health departments are to investigate as authorized before assembling for another gabfest. It is stated that war-ring elements in the council have decided to let down the bars in the matter of confining their attention on a single type of motor truck. All are pretty well agreed that the situation calls for a three-quarters ton truck, if any is to be purchased, and it is probable that the special committee of five will have something tangible to recommend when the council meets in regular session Monday night.

Interesting scenes along the Mexican border as well as personalities identified with the turmoil to the south are graphically shown in a group of photographs displayed in the window at O. J. Dodge's jewelry store. The collection was assembled by Private Alfred G. Edwards of Barre, a member of the first Vermont regiment, who sent them to his brother, James Edward. There are pictures, taken separately, of Carranza and Villa. A third photograph shows the polyglot collection of some of the companies on the border, seemingly nearly every race on the face of the globe being represented in a company group photographed with the American flag for a background. Pictures of bandits, dead and alive, are also included in the collection. Friends of Private Edwards will be interested to learn that he has been assigned to ordnance and engineer work through an order issued by Colonel L. L. Reeves at the request of Lieutenant Manly.

MONTPELIER

Mr. and Mrs. James Gomez of 238 Barre street are the parents of a son, and Mr. and Mrs. Dana C. Perry of 135 Elm street are the parents of a daughter, born July 30. Vital statistics for the seven months ending July 31 show that 46 male adult residents and 30 female adult residents died during that time.

Robert M. Fraser, administrator of the estate of Louis Barney, has decided to Isaac Hendelmann and wife a house and lot, the consideration named being $1,600.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Sun shades half price at Fitts.

Among the visitors in the city yesterday from Brookfield was G. B. Roddis.

Under the auspices of the woman's guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd, a lawn party and social will be held at the home of Mrs. Alex. Duncan, 13 East street, Tuesday evening, Aug. 8, beginning at 7 o'clock. Your patronage is solicited.

A unique ceremony was enjoyed by Red Men of Iroquois tribe last evening when upward of 100 braves gathered at Caledonia park to work the adoption degree. A special train took the Red Men and their equipment to the park and the degree work was exemplified in the open, under the shadowy curtain of trees that stretch back from the pavilion. All Red Men participating in the ceremony were in full regalia and there were many to witness the work. Several candidates got their adoption certificates. Afterward there was a whole meal of corn and venison. If there are enough candidates to warrant a second outdoor adoption, a meeting will be held before cold weather arrives.

The Golfers.

Rutland is entertaining a distinguished company of golfers during the state tournament. They are enthusiastic, for the most part, in behalf of an excellent and scientific game, which adapts itself well to personal peculiarities.

Golf is so ancient that in 1457 the Scottish Parliament feared that its popularity would interfere with national defense, so a measure was passed which decreed that "the fute ball and golf be utterly cryit down, and nocht usit," but that butts be used every week for target practice.

Those familiar with the absorbing nature of golf will understand the alarm of the Scots.

Golfers are normal, outdoor people. The game takes one agreeably into the open, and a high degree of skill and no little strength are necessary in order to play a full round of 18 holes, which may involve walking a couple of miles, driving the ball long distances, getting it out of difficult places with temper and judgment and putting it carefully into each hole with the fewest number of strokes.

Most non-golfers are appalled by the slang and technic of the game, but it is really eminently reasonable and straightforward, not so lively as tennis or so popular as baseball, but well worthy of serious athletic attention and capable of being played perhaps more months in the year than any other outdoor game.—Rutland Herald.

Vastness of Grand Canyon.

Few people can realize on the first view of the Grand Canyon that it is more than a mile deep and from eight to ten miles wide. The cliffs descending to its depths form a succession of huge steps, each 300 to 500 feet high, with steep rocky slopes between. The cliffs are the edges of hard beds of limestone or sandstone; the intervening slopes mark the outcrops of softer beds. This series of beds is more than 3,600 feet thick, and the beds lie nearly horizontal. Far down in the canyon is a broad shelf caused by the hard sandstone at the base of this series, deeply trenched by a narrow inner canyon out a thousand feet or more into the underlying "granite." The rocks vary in color from white and buff to red and pale green. They present a marvelous variety of picturesque forms, mostly on a titanic scale, fashioned mainly by erosion by running water, the agent which has excavated the canyon.—U. S. G. S.

Mayor A. S. Drew of Burlington has received an invitation from Thomas L. Raymond, mayor of Newark, N. J., to be present as the guest of the city on Sept. 6-9 on the occasion of the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, and the grand meet of the American Amateur Athletic union, in which 400 of the world's leading athletes will participate. It is all a part of Newark's observation from May to October of her 250th anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Forkey of Worcester, Mass., who are spending their honeymoon with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Simon of Vergennes, recently visited Arnold's bay, where, during the war of the Revolution, Arnold's ship, the Congress, was sunk. While walking on the beach, Mrs. Forkey picked up an English penny of the time of George the 3d, bearing the date of 1775. The coin is in good state of preservation and it is thought it was washed up from the sunken flagship.

ABOUT THE STATE

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST FROM DIFFERENT SECTIONS

Middlebury fair will have a Ford day and will give prizes for different Ford stunts.

The state has acquired land and springs on the Edward Bushnell place in Bennington and will use the purchase for a state fish hatchery.

Miss L. P. Moulter of New York is leader in a movement to promote civic study among the women in Rutland.

Fred Carter, a Rutland plumber, received two long gashes in his right arm Thursday when a gasoline torch exploded.

In an effort to raise more funds for the soldiers in Company I, Brattleboro citizens are planning a supper and lawn fete.

Vermont will be represented at the 50th annual G. A. R. encampment in Kansas City Aug. 29 to Sept. 1 by the Vermont department officials, headed by C. H. Streeter.

The U. V. M. summer school faculty will play a game of ball with the students' team as the result of a challenge issued by the students.

Philo Dunham of Bakersfield had one shoulder crushed when he fell from a load of hay this week and one of the wheels passed over it. It is feared that there are internal injuries.

The Vermont Marble company sustained a loss of $50,000 when the structure in West Rutland known as the Palace mill burned Friday morning. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

The body of Patrick McCarthy, who was drowned in the Connecticut river July 24, was buried in Brattleboro Friday morning. Every effort to get in touch with relatives of the deceased man failed.

Charles A. Moss, a steamship agent at Washington, D. C., and formerly of St.

Albans, died this week as the result of an injury he received in his motor boat some three weeks ago. He was born in Vermont in 1864.

At the monthly meeting of the state board of health Thursday evening, the question of a better water supply for Enosburg Falls was discussed, a delegation of citizens from that village being present.

John White, a Burlington newsboy, while delivering papers Thursday, was severely bitten in the face by a dog belonging to one of his customers. The boy was treated at once and is resting comfortably.

Arrangements have been made by the Chittenden County Farmers' association for a fifty-mile motor trip to be participated in by 200 farmers to inspect growing crops and the various demonstrations by the county agent, J. W. Dana.

The building at the corner of Park and North Bend streets in Burlington, which the city recently bought on account of the proposed change in the location of the street made necessary by the landslide in the spring, will be sold. The work of filling in the hole is going on slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and son, Max, returning from Burlington recently in their motorcycle to their home in Waterbury, had a narrow escape from serious injury when a passing automobile struck Mr. Bailey's hand on the left handlebar, causing him to lose control of the car, which turned turtle. All were severely shaken up. The car was not damaged.

Charles M. DeForest of New York City, representing the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and public health side of the Red Cross work, has been in the state for two weeks in conference with the state board of health and a number of other physicians and laymen actively interested in the movement. A state association for the fighting of tuberculosis is practically a reality. Its foundation has been laid through the annual sale of Red Cross Christmas seals conducted hitherto under the auspices of the Vermont branch of the Red Cross. An organization committee of 19 people from points throughout the state has been formed.
